Nixon Refuses Comment After Rocky Withdraws From GOP Consideration

By Ernest B. Vaccaro

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon — the Republican presidential nomination virtually in his grasp—stood aloof Sunday from mounting speculation over his likely running mate.

The obviously happy Nixon appeared aware, as most leaders of both parties professed to be, that only a major unforeseeable obstacle could upset his chances now that his chief potential rival has withdrawn from the race.

Nelson Rockefeller

Strikers Hear Plea From Chief

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller returned to the New York State Capitol Sunday in a joking, laughing mood but he refused to elaborate on his decision to quit the race for the Republican presidential nomination.

"I have nothing to add to what I said last night," he told newsmen who met his twin-engine private plane at Albany Airport.

New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's sudden and surprise announcement that he will not run left Nixon alone in the field. And there appeared slim likelihood that anyone else might step in where a campaigner like Rockefeller declined to tread.

While others speculated on a GOP vice-presidential nominee and began thinking in terms of booms for their favorites, Nixon refused to be drawn into making a choice.

He told reporters as he left his Wesley Heights home for a football game that it is too early for him to discuss a running mate or, for that matter, to make any announcement on his own behalf for the presidency.

With everything going his way, the vice president appeared to feel there is nothing to gain by speeding up an announcement of his own candidacy for top place on the ticket.

"My plans have always been made," he said in reply to questions, "independently of what other people might say or do."

Would Rockefeller's decision to withdraw speed up his announcement, reporters wanted to know.

"It doesn't change my plans as far as an announcement is concerned," he replied.

His chat with newsmen took place as Nixon entered his limousine for a trip to Baltimore to attend the professional football game between the Baltimore Colts and the New York Giants. With him was Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers, his close friend and adviser. Also in the party were Nixon's 14-year-old nephew, Donnie Nixon of Whittier, Calif., and Rogers' sons, Tony, Jeff and Doug.

As vice-presidential speculation ranged over such prospects as Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell, House GOP Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana and Sen. Kenneth B. Keating of New York, pressure was growing to persuade Rockefeller to take second place on the ticket.

Keating himself said he hoped Rockefeller would reconsider his position not to be a candidate for vice president, although he added, "but he has said to me privately as well as publicly he would not run for vice president."

The Democrats, with a flock of potential candidates maneuvering for the top nomination on their ticket, found themselves united a beat-Nixon theme.

Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, the Democratic vice presidential nominee in 1956, said Rockefeller's withdrawal "shows old guard Republicans are in complete control."

Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, the Democratic vice presidential nominee in 1956, said Rockefeller's withdrawal "shows old guard Republicans are in complete control."

Interviewed on a CBS-TV program—"Face the Nation"—Kefauver predicted the Democrats will be more united against Nixon than they would have been against Rockefeller, he said, is more liberal.

Nixon, Kefauver said, has voiced some "harsh words" against Democrats in past campaigns and he said they "haven't forgotten."

Kefauver observed that President Eisenhower's 11-country trip abroad on a peace crusade had captured popular imagination and would add strength to the GOP cause.

Sources close to Nixon said he would be in no hurry to talk out on major issues for the time being as long as he is benefitting from his association with Eisenhower.

Besides, he was said to feel that it would not be in his own or the party's interest to start campaigning early in the year with developments at home and abroad moving so rapidly.

President Flies To Augusta

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower flew down to Dixie Sunday for a work and rest vacation at Augusta National Golf Club. The weather was balmy and he was on the course 15 minutes after he arrived.

The work will be coming along later, in preparation for the return of Congress to Washington, Jan. 6 and later top-level diplomatic sessions.

Eisenhower will be conferring by telephone Monday morning with Secretary of State Christian A. Herter. White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said one thing they will discuss will be the letter the President received from Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev requesting a date other than April 27 for an East-West summit conference.

This Hagerty, said also, is a matter for discussion with U.S. allies.

The chief executive's smile was going full blast when he stepped off his plane from Washington and found the sun pouring down and the thermometer at 70.

"Well," he exclaimed delightedly, "this is better than last time."

Eisenhower spent 12 days here in November relaxing at his favorite golfing spot in advance of his arduous good-will trip to eleven nations.

Mrs. Eisenhower looked equally happy, even though she has no great hankering for flying.

Accompanying the Eisenhowers from Washington were Mr. and Mrs. George Allen and William E. Robinson, Robinson, of New York is chairman of the board of Coca Cola Corp. Like Allen, he is a favorite golf and bridge companion of the President.

Allen is a Washington businessman and a neighbor of the Eisenhowers in Gettysburg.

Eisenhower will be in Augusta at least through New Year's Day.

In the coming political campaign, Eisenhower will be expected to give whatever help he can to Republican hopes for victory in next fall's elections.

His first big 1960 chance will be as the star of a top-drawer list of speakers at 75 simultaneous "Dinner With Ike" meetings across the country on Jan. 27. These will kick off a GOP fund-raising drive.

Another two-car collision, just west of the Allegheny Valley Interchange of the Pennsylvania Turnpike, killed a man and a woman Sunday.

Mid-West Struck By Snow Storm

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wind-whipped snow swept a thick, blinding pall through west and central Kansas, northwest Oklahoma and the Texas and Oklahoma panhandles Sunday. It fanned out northeastward across the Central Plains.

Gusts up to 50 miles an hour blew the heavy, white blanket out of New Mexico, reducing visibility to near zero. Travelers were warned that drifts and subfreezing temperatures rendered roads hazardous.

The warnings covered an area embracing central and southwest Kansas, eastern Nebraska and extreme western Iowa, and northward into the eastern Dakotas and extreme western Minnesota.

The snowfall was eight inches in some areas.

In Oklahoma's Panhandle, hazardous driving warnings were posted for U.S. Rt. 54 and State Rt. 3, as the blizzard swirled eastward.

One U.S. weather observer in Topeka said he saw some of the largest snow flakes in his experience. Some measured an estimated 2 1/2 inches in diameter. Flakes an inch or two in diameter were common.

Ponca City, Okla., shuddered against the onslaught of icy blasts reaching speeds of 70 miles an hour. Russell, Kan., measured four inches of new snow.

Panhandle, Stratford was besieged in the extreme upper Texas by an estimated 6- to 8-inch fall.

By contrast, much of the eastern half of the nation was bathed in warm, moist air wafted northward from the Gulf of Mexico.

Extensive rains were noted throughout the Mississippi Valley, spreading eastward through the Great Lakes and Illinois into the north-central Atlantic states.

Showers and thunderstorms pelted northwestern Arkansas and Missouri, with Springfield, Mo., getting 2 1/2 inches of rain. Some sections of the upper Midwest fell prey to freezing rain, fog and sub-freezing temperatures.

FOG IMPEDES TRAFFIC on Route 611, near Wesley Chapel, four miles north of Stroudsburg yesterday. The melting snow, rising temperatures and generally high humidity all combined to make driving hazardous. As you can see, from this fine shot of foggy conditions, the drivers are not taking any chances, but are staying in line.

During Summit Session

Reds Hint Premier May Talk Of Plan

By A. I. Goldberg

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet press hinted Sunday Premier Nikita Khrushchev will insist on talking about his total disarmament plan at the East-West summit meeting.

While the Soviet Union has agreed with the United States, Britain and France on a summit meeting in Paris next year at a date to be decided, the big hurdle is expected to be an agenda.

The tenor of the Soviet press indicates some tough bargaining lies ahead on an agenda. Khrushchev's total disarmament plan has been labeled propaganda by spokesmen for the West, which prefers to take up his ideas at a liberation disarmament conference to be held in Geneva.

The Communist party newspaper Pravda derided the idea of a summit meeting of mere talk "while the further arms race continues." It said this idea of a talk-fest was being hinted at in the Western press.

And in what might be a reference to a Soviet insistence on taking up at the summit the plan Khrushchev laid before the United Nations last September, Pravda said disarmament is a top subject and only statesmen invested with full powers can decide problems.

The trade union newspaper Trud said, "Disarmament is the key to easing international tensions." It noted that three months had gone by since Khrushchev unfolded his plan at the U.N. for total disarmament within four years. It is the fault of the Soviet Union, Trud added, that nothing had been done about it.

Pravda said recognition by the Western powers of the need for summit meetings "is noted with satisfaction by all peace-loving men and women."

The newspaper said Western press hints of summit talks without reaching practical solutions of world problems were attempts "to shake the public hopes for the forthcoming meeting to make an effective contribution to the consolidation of peace."

"Such attempts reflect the crying contradictions in which certain Western circles have landed," Pravda continued. "They fear lest a thaw in the international climate frustrate the military plans of the West—and that these plans are now being stepped up has been convincingly shown by the December session of the NATO Council."

The convention, which 2,000 of the 71,000 state teachers are expected to attend, begins by coincidence, at the start of a special legislative conference on the school subsidy increase.

The PSEA's original proposal for a 200-million-dollar subsidy increase was first scaled down to 70 million by the House Education Committee, then to 55 million by the House Appropriations Committee, and finally to 16 million by the Senate Education Committee.

It is the latter proposal which will come before the House-Senate conference committee Monday.

Mediation Chief Says

Steel Negotiation End With 'Zero'

By Sterling F. Green

WASHINGTON (AP)—A confusing welter of steel dispute negotiations in Washington and scores of other cities Sunday wound up with "zero" results, the federal mediation chief said.

Joseph F. Finnegan, the government mediator, met with the top negotiating teams of industry and the United Steelworkers of America for 70 minutes Sunday afternoon, after 11 separate company meetings here had broken up without visible progress.

President David J. McDonald of the Steelworkers, who had asked the company-by-company talks in evidence hope of splitting some steel companies off from the industry-united position, told newsmen: "No progress was made at any of the company meetings reported to me."

"I think that statement stands for me too," said R. Conrad Cooper, chief negotiator for the industry.

Monday, President Eisenhower's board of inquiry headed by Dr. George W. Taylor, re-enters the dispute. It will hold a public hearing at 2 p.m. after separate sessions with the union at 10 a.m. and the industry negotiator at 11 a.m.

But faces were grim Sunday and comments bitter as the two sides prepared to let the Taft-Hartley run its course.

That would mean a secret ballot by the 500,000 Steelworkers on the company's last offer, which is to be delivered to the presidential board formally Monday. It is the same offer which union spokesmen previously have declared unacceptable.

Finnegan, Cooper and McDonald presented themselves to newsmen after the top bargaining teams finished their session in a downtown hotel.

"What if anything was accomplished today?" a reporter asked. "Zero," said Finnegan unsmilingly.

"Would you care to elaborate?" "Well, half of zero is still zero," said the government's chief mediator.

Both Cooper and McDonald said they knew of nothing the government could do at this time to prevent the dispute from going to a secret ballot Jan. 11-13.

If the last offer is rejected, the union is free to stage a resumption of the 166-day strike which virtually paralyzed the steel industry this fall and caused multi-billion-dollar losses in total national output.

The strike could be resumed after Jan. 25. That is when the 80-day back-to-work injunction issued under the Taft-Hartley law expires.

Of the several simultaneous company negotiations here, one of United States Steel Corp. executives and the longest and loudest was that of the company's spokesmen. The noises overhead in the corridor outside indicated the unionists were getting some grievances off their chests.

The bridge, 35, is a graduate of the University of Tehran, the London School of Economics and Princeton University and now is with the International Monetary Fund here. His father is an Iranian senator, Amir Homayoon Boushehri. His grandfather, who was one of the richest landowners in Iran, was one of the signers of the Iranian constitution.

The Episcopal ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. James Vallent of Olney.

Most States Stress Strict Enforcement

TRAFFIC deaths on the nation's highways climbed steadily Sunday night in the final hours of the three-day Christmas holiday weekend.

But the final toll, which started at a deadly pace Christmas Eve and Day, was not expected to reach the 530 traffic deaths the National Safety Council said was possible. The toll is computed between 6 p.m. Thursday (local time) and midnight Sunday—a period of 78 hours.

Most states pressed strict enforcement of all traffic regulations, keeping state and local police on full shifts.

The traffic fatality rate this year lagged behind 1958. At the 72-hour mark, 402 traffic deaths were counted compared to 417 for the same period during last year's four-day Christmas weekend.

However, the Council warned that bad weather conditions and heavy traffic made a "lethal combination" during the final hours.

Wintry weather—wind-driven snows and ice-glazed highways—made driving hazardous in Oklahoma, New Mexico, Texas and parts of Kansas, Iowa, Minnesota and the Dakotas. Freezing rain to heavy snow was expected to spread into the upper Mississippi Valley through the night.

A snowfall of 3 to 5 inches closed U.S. 64 between Boise City, Okla., and Clayton, N.M. Driving was discouraged in the Oklahoma Panhandle.

In Wisconsin, extreme caution was urged on the state's fog-shrouded, wet highways.

Tolls were high in New York where heavy travel encountered weather hazards, and in California where it didn't.

Outstripped Usual
The accumulation of traffic deaths outstripped that considered usual for a nonholiday weekend period of 78 hours at this season. Such a figure, the safety council, said was 370.

An Associated Press survey of actual accident deaths two weeks ago—between 6 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 10, and midnight Sunday, Dec. 13, counted 324 accident fatalities. Also noted were 22 fire deaths in the non-holiday check period and 68 in miscellaneous other types of accidents, a total of 414 including traffic.

Last year's four-day Christmas weekend brought 594 deaths in traffic, 93 in fires, and 97 miscellaneous, a total of 784.

R. E. Jones, Banker, Dies In Hospital

PROMINENT Monroe County banker, Russell E. Jones, 73, of Stroudsburg, died late night in Monroe County General Hospital.

Mr. Jones, executive vice president of East Stroudsburg National Bank, had been in failing health for some time.

A leader in community circles for a quarter of a century, Mr. Jones was known throughout banking circles as a "friend to man."

Mr. Jones served more than 50 years as an official of the East Stroudsburg bank.

Mr. Jones started to work for the bank in 1909 as a combination bookkeeper, janitor and handy man. He took care of the fires and came in on Saturdays to clean and sweep so that the bank would be in a business like appearance for Monday's business.

1938 was the year that he was named cashier, an office which he held until 1947 when he was elevated to the office of executive vice president. In 1954 he was elected to the Board of Directors.

Mr. Jones is survived by his wife, Mrs. Nellie Bush Jones; one son, Dr. R. Frederick Jones; one daughter, Mrs. Margaret Maser, of Reading; and two grandchildren. Also one brother, Harry Jones.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by the William H. Clark Funeral Home at a later date.

Industrialist Will Head 260,000 Keystone Masons

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 28 — Max F. Balcom, industrialist and civic leader, will be installed today as right worshipful grand master of the Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons of Pennsylvania in Masonic Temple, Philadelphia.

Balcom, of Emporium, will head approximately 260,000 Pennsylvania Masons in nearly 600 Masonic Lodges throughout the state.

Balcom succeeds Sanford M. Chilcote, a Pittsburgh attorney, as head of Pennsylvania Masons. Chilcote served two years as Grand Master.

Other Grand Lodge officers installed include:

W. LeRoy McKinley, a Philadelphia attorney, deputy grand master; Earl F. Herold, a Butler banker, senior warden; Robert E. Deyoe, an Oil City businessman, junior warden; Louis Bacharach, a Philadelphia businessman, treasurer; and Ashby Paul, of Harrisburg, secretary.

Balcom, former chairman of the Board of Directors of Sylvania Electric Products, Inc., continues as a director of that firm.

Recognized in '57

His pioneering in the radio tube industry was formally recognized in 1957, when the Electronics Indus. Assn. awarded him its 1957 Medal of Honor for his outstanding contributions to the industry. Balcom's wide knowledge of all aspects of the radio and tube and electronics fields has been developed for more than four decades with Sylvania and its predecessor companies.

Urges Death For U. S. Flier

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Pamphlets demanding the death sentence for Allan Lawrence Pope, captured American flier, appeared Friday only three days before he goes on trial.

Pope, 31, of Miami, Fla., was captured May 18, 1958, when his B26 bomber was shot down in east Indonesian waters while on an alleged bombing mission. He is accused of aiding Indonesian rebels in the north Celebes who were attempting to overturn President Sukarno's government. Several persons are alleged to have been killed, and property was damaged by the bombing.

Active in civic, welfare and commercial activities in Emporium, Balcom is a judge of the Cameron County Common Pleas Court. He is a 33rd Degree Mason.

Max F. Balcom

Members of the Grand Lodge also re-elected the following men to serve on the Committee on Masonic Homes:

Scott C. Rea, of Sunbury; Robert E. Woodside Jr., of Millersburg; Scott S. Leiby, Past Grand Master, of Harrisburg; Dr. C. Howard Witmer, of Lancaster; William E. Yeager, Past Grand Master, of Warren; Francis E. Mills, of Reading; and Ellis E. Stern, of Coatesville. Balcom, McKinley, Herold and Deyoe are also members of the committee.

Novel Tree Platform Plays Tricks But Is Top Project

By Jim Shafer

IF YOU HAPPEN to go by the home of Louis Williams, 1564 Spruce St., Stroudsburg, and see a Christmas tree revolving it is the tree and not your eyes playing a trick on you. Williams got the novel idea from a display he saw while Christmas shopping. He thought it would be something for his eight-month-old daughter to see. The big question was how would he do it and how much time would it take?

Several days later, while working on a custom made Lazy Susan table by Leanna Woodcraft, Stroudsburg RD 2, most of his questions on the project were answered. He went home and looked at the motor on his wife's rotisserie and there was the answer to what should make the platform turn.

The next day he turned down a six-inch bolt to act as the axle and from that on it was easy. He nailed two small pieces of plywood together and then cut the wood into a two-foot circle. Underneath he nailed a piece of HO gauge railroad track and connected the electric supply.

The track is broken to cause the lights to go off and on. A set of contacts ride on the track and send the current onto the lights of the tree.

Williams said that the total cost for his material was very small, but the most important part is having a wife that will give up the motor to her rotisserie for the holiday season.

He said that if anyone would like to have information on how to build this for their next year's Christmas they should feel free to contact him at his home. He added that the tree will be in operation from now until after New Year's Day and may be seen in the picture window as you go by.

Burial Services For Mrs. Johnson

FUNERAL services were held for Mrs. Henrietta Johnson yesterday at 1:30 p.m. in the Christian Missionary Alliance Church. Revs. William H. Lipsett, B. H. Hostetter and W. H. Woodall officiating.

Interment was made in the Stroudsburg Cemetery. Pallbearers were Cecil Beville, Richard Beville, William Beville, Mansfield Brooks, Joseph Johnson and William Johnson.

Honorary pallbearers were John Beville, Charles Minor, James Rosier and Stewart Woody.

William H. Clark Funeral Home was in charge of the services.

ANKARA was chosen as capital of Turkey because the climate is drier and more invigorating than the damp heat of Istanbul's summers.

No Joy From Tax World

Among the joyful tidings you didn't hear were of any general tax cuts next year. That's the word from Chairman Mills of the House Ways and Means Committee.

The committee has been studying tax reform for the past several weeks, and it was thought that some specific proposals might get early Congressional attention. But Mr. Mills says the length of time required for review of the hearings would pretty much preclude action in 1960. Besides, it's thought neither he nor the Administration is eager to see an election year tax-cutting contest develop.

Now tax reform is not necessarily tax reduction, though ideally any thorough reform ought to lead to considerably lower levies. But right now, apart from any other consideration, there can't be tax cuts—at least it would be ridiculous—with the budget out of balance again and the public debt over $290 billion.

At the same time Mr. Mills said that in his opinion "tax rates are much too high from the standpoint of incentives and economic growth."

So here we already have a rather ridiculous situation. Taxes are too high for the good of the country and the welfare of the people. Yet we as a nation seem incapable of achieving a large budget surplus that would permit both repayment on the public debt and tax reductions. And why is this so? Largely because of the pressures successfully applied by those who want to spend more and more Government money in the name of the people's welfare.

That is no unsupported, dogmatic contention but a fact clearly revealed in the successive budgets. It is not Defense Department spending which has shot up so steeply in the past several years; it is spending for the proliferating array of civilian handouts under the broad heading of "welfare." The total spending budget in fiscal 1955 was less than $65 billion, but this year it may be $80 billion or more—a mere matter of $15 billion or so more down the subsidy drain.

Nor is that the worst. Increased Government spending tends to require still greater future increases. The handout program that starts small this year bears costlier fruit three or five years hence. On that basis, of course, you never get to the point where debt and taxes can be reduced.

Suppose that, instead of soaring, spending had been held to the 1955 level—high enough, in all conscience. We won't presume to say what people would have done with the tax-cut dividends, whether they would have spent them for better housing and a still better standard of living or whether they would have saved them; probably some of both. And when people spend for more production and save for future growth, they are, by definition, expanding the economy. The place economic growth is not to be found in the sterile subsidies of the State.

It would be one thing if the needs of defense were the cause of these continued high taxes; that would be understandable and hence acceptable. But when they are "required" by increasing political waste and extravagance, and when, to boot, they are inhibiting economic growth, it is surely time to talk about reforming a good deal more than taxes.

Taxes, as Mr. Mills says, are much too high. When are people going to start seriously asking why? And thereby explode this delusion that the spending addicts are the ones who are looking after the welfare of the people?

Where The Tall Corn Grows

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Cantor Book Not Funny

Eddie Cantor, the comedian, has written a book that is not funny. The clown has often been a philosopher. So Eddie has written a serious book about his philosophy of life.

It just goes to show how little relationship there is between how a man earns a living and the real man. When Eddie was seen on the stage, screen, or television, he was always the comedian, the clown, sometimes even a black-faced clown. But since his childhood, Eddie was always very serious.

As one might say, he started life with nothing. Nowadays, he would be called underprivileged. He was very much so. He was an orphan in the days before relief. Somehow he managed to survive his childhood. Perhaps it was because he was taken to the Educational Alliance Camp on Surprise Lake where we saw grass and trees and horses and cows and found life very different from the East Side of New York City where we all lived.

Unfortunately for the social workers, we did not know that we were underprivileged. Imagine how sad it would have been had we discovered such a condition. We took life as it came and thanked God that it was no worse. So now Eddie has written a philosophy of life which he calls, "The Way I See It." And in it I find some paragraphs on what the youngsters call "corny."

"If you advertised for a mother . . . do you know how the ad would read? 'Wanted: a woman to cook and sew, to clean house, wash clothes, and do all the odd jobs in between. Must be at home with illness, adversity and crisis of every kind. No salary . . . no vacation . . . no chance for advancement.' Now you know that nobody would ever answer an ad like that. That's why God invented mothers."

"I suppose this would be considered 'corn'—another of the dirty words. If so, it's a compliment when they call me corny. Corn is a lot more wholesome, more satisfying, than some of the stuff they're serving up today. Well, these days, the young folks like to be sophisticated, to show that nothing bothers them. But if that is so, why do they cry in the movies where nobody can catch them at it but their consciences? If that is so, why do they like the sentimental pictures on the late shows on television? This younger generation of sophisticates which talks so much on the telephone and has read all the 'bad' books and has seen all the pictures that the Legion of Decency marks as improper is just as sentimental as we were, only it doesn't like to show it. We were not ashamed to show that we loved home and mother."

As Eddie says: "But exactly what do they mean by being corny? That you love your mother? That you love America? At the end of a radio show, I once said, 'Tomorrow is Flag Day. We're urged by veterans' groups and patriotic associations to hang out our flag. That's fitting and proper. But why just tomorrow? Why not every day. Let's give our flag a permanent wave.'"

In the intervening years much of this has changed. Today Capitol Hill has been taken over almost completely by Democratic faithful. Democratic "veterans" are throwing the ball with the ease of their Republican counterparts of only a comparatively few years ago.

They walk on the ground on Capitol Hill with the assurance of complete ownership. They have managed to garner that touch of "bureaucratic freedom" that entitles them to walk on that ground!

The holiday season this year, for the first time has been one of leaving Capitol Hill and returning, with the confidence of ones who feel they now "own" it. They've made the big hurdle (they're convinced) in being able to celebrate the holiday season with two Democratic administrations in a row for the first time.

Curious? Perhaps, but also perhaps understandable.

"Loving your country . . . this is corny." The point of Eddie's book is that life can be good and useful and successful if one lives it decently and with dignity. Eddie worked at being a clown but he did not clown up his life. He remained married to his one wife and he made life a good husband. His girls are not to be ashamed of. So, is this Hollywood?

It is for Eddie. He did not have to dirty his life or his home or his family to get a little more publicity. He did not have to fake being a Left-wing intellectual. Sure! Eddie knows that Karl Marx is not one of the Marx brothers. He knows that because he knows the Marx brothers and their mamma, too.

Instead, he has devoted much of his money to making it less unpleasant for boys and girls who have a tough childhood. He supports the old Camp on Surprise Lake where he used to sing around the camp-fire. If you like that kind of book, warm, cheering, thoughtful, inspiring, read Eddie Cantor's "The Way I See It." If you find it "corny"—well, it's just too bad for you. You were born too late.

Off The Record

By Robert Clark, City Editor

WITH FOG blanketing the entire area, forcing traffic to almost a standstill, the offices of The Daily Record took on the feeling of a morgue.

Looking around the large space known as the editorial room, one can peek a look at Leslie Benjamin Carlton, the byword in photography in the area, scanning a three-day old newspaper.

We doubt very much if Les is interested in the headlines of the past but it is better looking than peering toward Lenox St. and not seeing the avenue which runs directly in front of the Record building.

A peek over the other shoulder and you'll find Social Editor Bobby Westbrook pecking away at her typewriter. Wobly informed us that she felt alright physically but was just plain worn out.

One can easily see that the resident of the hills of East Stroudsburg is as down as the weather. She's working to be sure but her heart and soul is in a trip planned for the Continent in the summer and the upcoming graduation of her son, Pete.

Starting directly ahead we can look upon Penn State graduate, Bob Stewart who has just finished a new rewrite. The Record reporter is hoping sincerely that no accidents of any serious nature comes up within the next seven hours of his shift.

He's even got his fingers crossed to make sure the death toll doesn't rise on this particular Sunday. But even if you ask him, he is sure, he'll reply, "What you can't see outside, a motorist can't either."

Reporter Jim Shafer just finished an assignment of a novel Christmas tree platform. While the unique Yule setup had him talking for awhile, it was the weather that brought out most of his words, praying like Stewart that he doesn't have to go out on a fatal chore this Sabbath.

Record Chief Photographer Rod MacLeod has his own personal worries with his lad Johnny adorning a hospital bed during the holidays. But Mac who knows the roads of the County better than any hound dog typifies the feeling of all that the quiet that is now reigning in the news room will continue until the paper has gone to bed.

Weather likes the misty, hazy steam that has made itself known the past two days has a habit of keeping everyone in the dumps. And if a sad note sandwiches itself between the elements then it turns out twice as bad.

What about sports editor—Curt Prins—and reported Don Curt Prins and reporter Don Luck position in watching the Giants and Colts on TV, at this moment yesterday and Allen is enjoying the day off, far from the worries of the news beat.

Dr. John Erskine, savant and author, wrote: "At the end of my university studies, when I was leaving for my first professional job, I went to say goodbye to my old teacher, William Trent, who said, 'I can give you no theoretical advice in pedagogy, but . . .'"

The policy of neutrality also was embraced by the leaders of such powerful and uncommitted states as New York, Pennsylvania and Illinois.

At the same time, soundings in the 16 states with Presidential primaries convinced the party leaders that no decisive trend is likely to emerge from them.

Many of the leaders said they discerned an apparent shift in the strategy of Sen. John F. Kennedy (Mass.), who once hoped to demolish all his rivals in a series of smashing primary triumphs.

The Allen-Scott Report

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — Adlai Stevenson's first preference among the "active" Democratic presidential aspirants is Senator John Kennedy.

However, the former Illinois Governor and 1952-56 standard-bearer has no intention of making this significant leaning known at present. That may come later in the intensifying nomination race.

It is possible Stevenson may decide to reveal his preference for Kennedy as a means of slamming the door on continued zealous efforts to embroil him in that battle.

Stevenson is firmly determined to stay out of it for two reasons:

He sincerely does not want to run again, as he has repeatedly said publicly; and he is fully aware that only a few of the party's important leaders really favor him, while many of the most powerful are forcefully bent on preventing his being nominated a third time.

Reports From Congress — Kennedy is inclined to avoid picking fights in the backyards of other contenders. They think he will run only in states where he is a strong public favorite and in states where he suspects the favorite so is in league with anti-Kennedy forces.

A top Kennedy strategist passed the word to the leaders that "we're not going to run where we don't have to." Even the "showdown" primary in Oregon next May 20 may have the edge taken off it by the favorite son candidacy of Sen. Wayne Morse, according to reports from Oregon leaders and others who have visited the state in the past two weeks.

Unusual interest has attached to the Oregon contest because of a unique new primary law that virtually requires all serious contenders to let their names go on the ballot. It was thought that Oregon, at least, would give a clear indication of how the candidates stand.

But the situation has now been complicated by the apparent determination of Morse's backers to place his name on the ballot by petition, despite his stated desire to stay out.

Oregon observers predicted that Morse might well win the preference poll against the big field of outside candidates. In fact, they said, there are already indications that some of the national candidates may not even campaign in the state if Morse's name goes on the ballot.

The top-level Democrats who gathered in New York for meetings of the Democratic Advisory Council cited two reasons for expecting no early break in the nomination struggle:

1. Key state and national leaders are withholding their endorsements from the front-runners.

2. There will be few, if any, showdown tests in the primaries.

The meetings in New York produced no spectacular gains for any of the hopefuls. The potential "kingmakers" in the party seemed united only in their determination to hold off giving firm commitments to any candidate.

'Neutrality' Reigns — Truman declared he would not announce his choice for the nomination until the day before the convention opens.

Adlai E. Stevenson pledged himself to a policy of "vertical neutrality," meaning that he will not, if he can help it, give any evidence of his leanings. Stevenson's action and his reception in New York did nothing to discourage his backers' hopes that he himself would be available for a third Presidential race.

Many of the leaders said they discerned an apparent shift in the strategy of Sen. John F. Kennedy (Mass.), who once hoped to demolish all his rivals in a series of smashing primary triumphs.

A top Kennedy strategist passed the word to the leaders that "we're not going to run where we don't have to." Even the "showdown" primary in Oregon next May 20 may have the edge taken off it by the favorite son candidacy of Sen. Wayne Morse, according to reports from Oregon leaders and others who have visited the state in the past two weeks.

Unusual interest has attached to the Oregon contest because of a unique new primary law that virtually requires all serious contenders to let their names go on the ballot. It was thought that Oregon, at least, would give a clear indication of how the candidates stand.

But the situation has now been complicated by the apparent determination of Morse's backers to place his name on the ballot by petition, despite his stated desire to stay out.

Oregon observers predicted that Morse might well win the preference poll against the big field of outside candidates. In fact, they said, there are already indications that some of the national candidates may not even campaign in the state if Morse's name goes on the ballot.

The top-level Democrats who gathered in New York for meetings of the Democratic Advisory Council cited two reasons for expecting no early break in the nomination struggle:

1. Key state and national leaders are withholding their endorsements from the front-runners.

2. There will be few, if any, showdown tests in the primaries.

The meetings in New York produced no spectacular gains for any of the hopefuls. The potential "kingmakers" in the party seemed united only in their determination to hold off giving firm commitments to any candidate.

'Neutrality' Reigns — Truman declared he would not announce his choice for the nomination until the day before the convention opens.

Adlai E. Stevenson pledged himself to a policy of "vertical neutrality," meaning that he will not, if he can help it, give any evidence of his leanings. Stevenson's action and his reception in New York did nothing to discourage his backers' hopes that he himself would be available for a third Presidential race.

Many of the leaders said they discerned an apparent shift in the strategy of Sen. John F. Kennedy (Mass.), who once hoped to demolish all his rivals in a series of smashing primary triumphs.

At the same time, soundings in the 16 states with Presidential primaries convinced the party leaders that no decisive trend is likely to emerge from them.

time, even if he wanted that.

He would have to overcome far tougher opposition this time, and Stevenson has no stomach for it. Two long and bruising campaigns were enough.

Also, Stevenson has no illusions about his high ratings in various polls. They represent rank-and-file sentiment, and not that of the Democratic "pros" who will largely control the key state delegations at the Los Angeles convention.

Most of those "pros" are against him, and he knows it. Foremost among them is former President Truman, who privately makes no bones about it.

"We're going to stop Stevenson this time," he told an old political friend during his recent New York visit. "I started too late in 1956 (when Truman declared for former Governor Averell Harriman the day before the convention opened). But I'm not making that mistake again. We're starting early to make sure of it."

Basis of Stevenson's preference for Kennedy is a high regard for his intelligence, competence, social consciousness, integrity and courage.

While not close friends, they are on cordial terms and exchange views from time to time. Also significantly, certain leading authorities and experts whom Kennedy consults regularly are either former Stevenson campaign advisers or highly regarded by him.

This distinguished group includes: On foreign policy — Professors Max Millikan and Walt Rostow, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Dr. Harry Kissinger, Harvard Center for International Studies; Paul H. Nitze, former member of the State Department's policy planning board.

Economics — Professors Kenneth Galbraith and Seymour Harris, Harvard.

Labor — Professors Archibald Cox, Harvard; and George Taylor, University of Pennsylvania.

Civil Liberties — Professors DeWolfe Howe and Paul Freund, Harvard.

Political Science — Professor Earl Latham, Amherst.

History — Professors Allan Nevins, Columbia; and Arthur Schlesinger, Harvard, who traveled with Stevenson throughout the 1956 campaign.

As of now, prior to throwing his hat into the ring this weekend, Kennedy is leaning toward staying out of the April 5 primary in Wisconsin.

Senator Hubert Humphrey (D., Minn.) is very eager to tangle with Kennedy there.

Final decision will be made by Kennedy within a couple of weeks after conferring with Senator William Proxmire (D., Wis.), who wants to run as a "favorite son" and to battle it out with Humphrey for the state's 32 delegates. Proxmire claims strong labor support for that.

Politics — Senator Lyndon Johnson is already virtually assured of Nevada's 15 convention votes. Both Senators Allen Bible and Howard Cannon are strongly for Johnson and busily lining up their state's delegation for him.

In the meanwhile, former President Truman is slated to address a big fund-raising rally in Reno on January 12, and Senator Kennedy will stump the state for two days at the end of the month.

An imposing group has been organized in New York to raise funds for Senator Hubert Humphrey. Leading the contribution seekers for the militant Minnesota are Angier Biddle Duke, wealthy former diplomat; Ralph Samuel, investment banker; Frank Karlson, vice president of the Public Education Association; James Lanigan, attorney and close to former Governor Harriman; Marvin Rosenberg, business executive.

Senator Symington is sticking by his plan not to enter any of the presidential primaries nor to formally announce his candidacy until Spring. That's the inside word from his close political adviser, Clark Clifford, special White House counsel to former President Truman and now a leading Washington business attorney. According to Clifford, regardless of what the other candidates do, Symington is going to eschew all primaries and not avoid his candidacy "until the right time."

Highly significant at the recent Democratic Advisory Committee session in New York was the enthusiasm voiced by these party leaders for Florida's Governor Leroy Collins. He was warmly lauded by Mrs. Roosevelt, former President Truman, Adlai Stevenson and others.

The Pennsylvania Story

State Demos Curious Lot

Harrisburg — Pennsylvania Democrats on the eve of rounding out their fifth year in office on Capitol Hill at this point are a rather curious lot.

The current holiday season and end-of-year festive mood that has gripped most on Capitol Hill in itself has a strong touch of the "unusual" — unusual from the standpoint that donkey riders of the Keystone

State never before weathered an event quite like this. And somewhat singular event: Never in the history of the Commonwealth since adoption of the first state constitution in 1790 when Indian uprisings and scalping — other than political — were nominally common, have Democrats been successful in wrapping up five consecutive Christmases as the administration in power.

Of course there have been Democratic governors before — six prior to the Democratic Leader Administration of 1955 — but never in the history of the state have Keystone State donkey riders been able to mount two consecutive Democratic administrations.

When Mr. Lawrence successfully granted over the top of "Ballot Box Hill" in the election battle of 1958, he was the first Democrat to make the grade — the first Democrat to succeed a Democrat in the gubernatorial front of the Main Capitol Building.

Thus at this holiday season in the year 1959, Pennsylvania Democrats are celebrating the Christmas season with the unusual feeling (for them) of now being fairly well entrenched. By now they are almost "veterans" at the job of running Capitol Hill!

Democratic members of the Capitol Hill payroll corps — and Pennsylvania taxpayers today are supporting nearly 72,000 state payrollers (up some 12,000 since Democrats first moved aboard five years ago) — have a new outlook, although most of course do not realize it.

They no longer sport that unfamiliar air of one who has "just been ascended" to the throne room of one who has been suddenly granted license — of one who has been handed the key and told in effect, "here it is, it's yours."

No Simple Solution

By William A. Doyle

Q. I own shares in a mutual fund. I am ready to retire and plan to spend a year in Europe. For years I have tried to explain to the mutual fund that I do not want to reinvest the capital-gains distribution I receive each year. But every year I receive a card stating that, if I do not answer, my capital-gains distribution will be reinvested.

After I retire, I will need this money for my living expenses. I am greatly worried that, while I am in Europe, my money will be reinvested and a certificate will be mailed to me — which probably will be lost.

What can I do?

A. There's really no simple solution to this. Each mutual fund usually has a custodian bank. The bank mails out the dividend checks, takes care of the capital-gains distributions and does a lot of other detail work.

The custodian bank normally goes along with the theory that the shareholders would want to reinvest capital-gains distributions. After all, those distributions are the shareholders' capital. Your annual distribution represents your share in the long-term profits the fund has made from selling securities it has held in its investment portfolio.

No two banks operate exactly alike in these matters. Some might accept a letter from you

Instructing that all future capital-gains distributions be paid in cash.

You could give power of attorney to someone who could sign the card you receive each year before the capital-gains distribution is due.

Or, because you should know from past experience at what time of year the mutual fund makes its capital-gains distribution, you could write a letter to the custodian bank just about that time. That letter should serve the same purpose as the card.

As you can see, this is much more complicated than signing a simple change-of-address form for the post office or having your dividend checks deposited in a bank account.

When you spend capital-gains distributions, you are living on your capital — not your income.

Q. I would like to ask

"what gives" with the mutual funds? I always thought this was a highly rated business. But now I see that the grocery man, the barber, the taxi driver are all selling mutual fund shares. How come mutual funds are sold by every Tom, Dick and Harry?

A. Come on, now. You are off the deep end on this one. Yes, there are part-time salesmen of mutual fund shares — just as there were part-time salesmen of insurance years ago.

The mutual fund business is a comparatively new business. Some people feel that part-time salesmen are part of the growing pains of the business.

But all securities salesmen who handle mutual funds are not part-timers. Some are representatives of old, established investment dealers who work full time at their jobs.

And, whether they are the part-timers or full-timers, they all have had training (some more than others) and they all have passed at least one examination. The rules covering all securities salesmen are pretty strict.

Mr. Doyle will answer only representative letters of general interest in his column. He cannot answer phone queries.

Non-Factory Job Increases Offset Manufacturing Dip

NONFARM employment in the tri-state region of New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania remained relatively stable in October, increasing by 6,100 to 11,474,300, according to Louis F. Buckley, Regional Director of the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The number of factory jobs declined by 7,000 over the month as losses in the fabricated metal and food processing industries more than offset the seasonal gains in the miscellaneous manufacturing and apparel industries. Seasonal increases raised nonmanufacturing employment by 13,200. The largest gains were in trade and government while significant losses were reported in the construction and service industries.

Nonagricultural employment in October was down 0.2 percent in the United States while in the middle Atlantic region employment rose 0.1 percent. The difference in trend was due mainly to the larger national loss in factory employment, 1.3 percent as compared to a decline of 0.2 percent in the region.

Earnings of factory production workers in the middle Atlantic region declined in October with all the states in the region reporting over-the-month losses. The largest decline was in New York, where earnings were down one percent to $87.18 while earnings in New Jersey and Pennsylvania declined to $93.13 and $85.54, respectively. Hourly earnings remained unchanged in the region but weekly hours in October were down from 39.5 to 39.1 in New York and from 40.5 to 40.3 in New Jersey. The factory workweek in Pennsylvania remained steady at 39.6 hours.

Clark Calls For Conference

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.) Sunday night called for a White House conference to determine "how many well-trained people we are likely to need in the critical decades ahead to achieve our national goals."

"We talk a great deal about the need for leadership and our responsibilities as the leader of the free world," Clark said, "but nobody is doing very much seeing that we get the leadership we need."

"The sooner we start thinking the better. The time is overdue seriously about our national goals for us to ask ourselves whether it is more important to have higher tail fins on our cars or better facilities in our colleges and universities."

Clark's remarks were contained in a speech prepared for the opening of the Kappa Psi Fraternity's national convention. The fraternity is a Negro organization.

Tragedy Ends Heartaches By The Number
Family Visit Holds First Place Rating
To Prison

HAVERSTRAW, N.Y. (AP)—A family's Christmas visit to a state prison ended in tragedy this week when their car smashed into a concrete abutment. Eight of the 11 occupants—including three children—perished.

The party had been visiting an inmate at Wallkill State Prison. Included were the prisoner's six children, his mother, sister and brother-in-law.

The children were being returned to a home for children south of Haverstraw when the car went out of control on wet concrete and slammed into a concrete-and-steel entranceway to a stone quarry.

All five adults and three of the children died immediately. The three other children were taken to a hospital in Suffern, N.Y. One was not expected to live. All were Puerto Ricans.

The children's father, Pedro Cruz, 35, has been in prison for the fatal stabbing of his wife in 1958. He had written St. Dominic's Home in Blauvelt, N.Y., seeking permission for the children to visit him.

Prison authorities said the children met with their father along with his mother, sister and brother-in-law. Two other persons, not identified, stayed in the car.

James Huntington, a prison official, informed that the Cruz family had been wiped out, cried: "Oh, my God, what kind of a Christmas present this will be."

The dead were listed as the car's driver, Eugenio Colon, 51; and his 40-year-old wife; Cruz's sister, Aida Pagan, 20; his brother-in-law, Segismundo Pagan; Cruz's mother, Mrs. Leopoldo Cruz, 60; and Cruz's children, Jose, 5, Violetta, 3, and Peter, 8. All were from New York.

The survivors were Maria, 9, Luis, 7, and Eugenio, 4.

Record Liquor Sales Forecast

HARRISBURG (AP)—The State Liquor Control Board has predicted record liquor sales this year, surpassing last year's $272,791,535 by 7 million dollars.

The board noted in a year-end statement that the new record should be achieved in spite of the steel strike and the new 4 percent sales tax on liquor.

The report even showed a trend toward higher-priced purchases during the year. For the first nine months sales in the higher price range increased 2.3 percent while those in the low range dropped 2.6 percent.

Man, 83, Killed

WHITEHOUSE, N. J. (AP)—Walter W. Hoover, 83, of R. D. 1, Bellefonte, Pa., was killed by a car Sunday while crossing Route 22. The highway was foggy at the time.

Casino Owner Shot To Death

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP)—A prominent casino owner was killed instantly by a burst of gunfire on the main street yesterday morning. Police booked the victim's woman companion as a material witness 14 hours later but said they still had no lead on the murderer's identity. Bill Duffin, 63-year-old co-owner of the Senator Club, was shot six times in the back as he started to enter his car. Duffin's companion, Ruby Barker, 34, was taken to Reno for questioning, then held at the Carson City jail as a material witness. Police Chief Bob Humphreys said Mrs. Barker, a former employee of Duffin, was being jailed for her own safety. "Whoever killed Bill might decide to do away with Ruby, too," he said.

Cyphers Electric Features GE Clothes Conditioner

WHY WORRY ABOUT harsh winds and wintry weather every time wash day comes around. There's no reason for any woman to have to brave the elements to hang up a wash when a new GE clothes conditioner can do the job for you.

This wonderful new dryer can dry a typical load of clothing for you in less than 35 minutes. Couple this time-saving factor with all the other features of convenience and specialized drying for every fabric and you'll wonder why you waited so long before buying your dryer. Many people say "I like that fresh-air-smell clothes have when hung out".

Air Freshener
G.E.'s new air freshener adds a "breezy day" fragrance to all your laundry and what's more the new G.E. dryer will leave your clothes fluffier and more germ-free than they have ever been before.

Here's another neat trick . . . G.E.'s new control setting "de-wrinkle" removes all wrinkles from "miracle" synthetic fabrics.

New high-speed drying is achieved through safe low temperatures plus the use of fast flowing currents of warm air wished directly through the clothes . . . drying them quickly and naturally.

Why wait? Visit Cyphers Electric, your G.E. dealer in Bartonville, and see the new in General Electric appliances for 1959.

The town site of Andover, Mass., where Phillips Andover Academy is located, was purchased from the Indians for about $30 and a coat.

Textured Walls Add Interest

TEXTURED walls add interest to any home and Hamill's Paint Center of 136 S. Courtland St., East Stroudsburg, has a revolutionary new product that will enhance and beautify your walls, whether they're new or old, badly cracked or perfect. The new product is called Spurge, a plastic coating that colors and plasters in one easy application. It is classified as methacrylate base texture paint and a patent is pending on its unique formulation. For clarification, methacrylate is described as a water soluble synthetic gum. It stabilizes and thickens solutions, acts as a suspending agent and as a binder, and forms clear, tough, continuous films.

Quality Material
Spurge meets the demand for an inexpensive, colorful, decorative material that will beautify and renew interior walls and ceilings. It by no means should be classified as a cheap product for low grade texture work.

It produces a very attractive finish which will enhance the appearance of rooms in all types of dwellings and buildings.

Hamill's Paint Center recommends Spurge for use over interior surfaces such as plaster, gypsum wallboard, other wallboards, concrete, brick, cinder or cement blocks, wood, canvas and wall fabrics and pre-primed metal.

The uses of Spurge are twofold. It acts as a decorative finish and as a restorer of old or unsightly cracked and disfigured wall and ceiling areas.

Hides Cracks
Being a plastic coating, Spurge very readily fills cracks, surface imperfections and hides taped joints in wallboard constructions.

Because Spurge is mixed with the universal solvent (water) no offensive odor will be noticed during application. Spurge therefore may be applied at any time of the year without having to air the room of paint fumes.

Spurge may be textured easily with a paint brush, sponge, roller, or any flat surfaced tool. To really get the full details on this great U-G-L product, Spurge, stop in at Hamill's Paint Center in East Stroudsburg and ask about it.

Pocono Joint Board Meets

SWIFTWATER — Two meetings have been scheduled for today and Wednesday for the Joint School Board of the Pocono Mountain Joint Schools, Board Secretary David Nelson announced yesterday.

The first meeting will be held Monday, Dec. 28 (today) and will concern the total bond issue for construction of the school.

Nelson said the order of business at tonight's meeting must be resolved before the second session scheduled for Wednesday, Dec. 30.

The second meeting will be concerned with finances and the total amount to be financed through the bonds.

Combination Storm Door Available From DeRenzis

EAGLE-PICHER's beautiful new "Self-Storing Combination Door" is available through Joseph G. DeRenzis & Son, 21 N. 6th St., Stroudsburg.

This door is considered the ultimate in storm doors and embodies a number of brilliant features which are exclusively Eagle-Picher.

The Eagle-Picher Self-Storing Combination Door is the last word in modern design and precision engineering. The door features three specially designed mortised hinges of special grade stainless steel which provide a trim, smooth, neat appearance in addition to extra strength for long, dependable service.

These hinges get much of their long-wearing durability and free swinging efficiency from specially designed nylon bearings: no wiggling or "jimmying" the door to open or close it.

Mohair Baffle
A mohair baffle or scientifically treated wool, placed in the door buck, is another one of the outstanding new features of the Eagle-Picher Self-Storing Combination Door.

In addition to weatherstripping the door, this improving feature silences all noise of metal-to-metal contact in the operation of the door. Truly, the Eagle-Picher Self-Storing Door is the door that "whisper" when it closes.

The Eagle-Picher Self-Storing Combination Door has a unique vinyl sweep securely attached at the bottom. This new feature cuts under-door drafts to a minimum.

It is made of extruded aluminum frame members. The door

Adenauer Holds Family Reunion

BONN, Germany (AP)—Konrad Adenauer, West Germany's 83-year-old chancellor, held a Christmas reunion with his family at his home yesterday despite a slight cold.

Adenauer reportedly caught the cold while attending the Western summit conference in Paris last weekend. His doctors ordered him to stay at home.

Miss Margaret Duecker Engaged To Music Teacher

Newfoundland — Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Duecker, of New York and Greentown, announce the engagement of their daughter, Margaret, to Mr. Werner A. Mueller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Steven A. Mueller, 2201 Haviland Avenue, The Bronx, New York.

The bride-elect was graduated with honors from St. Michael's Academy and Grace Downs Air Career School. She was editor of her school paper, "Echo," and of the year book, and served as secretary of the student council at St. Michael's. She is president of the Sienna League.

Mr. Mueller was graduated from Christopher Columbus High School and Itasca College. He attended New York College of Music, City College of New York, and was the recipient of the Fred Waring Scholarship of the Fred Waring Music Workshop. He did graduate work at the Manhattan School of Music. He is a member of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, national music fraternity. A teacher in the East Meadow Public Schools, he completed two years of military service with Army Intelligence.

The couple have selected August 20, 1960, as their wedding date.

Toy Shop Setting For Recital

A Christmas recital and party was held at the home of Mrs. Fred Quig, Arlington Heights, for her music pupils. The theme "A Christmas Toy Shop" was announced by Jon Miller with puppets, Mickle and Butch.

The setting had been made by Priscilla Bauman. As an introduction, Stephen Knouse played a trumpet solo, "America the Beautiful"; Lynn Jo Bailey sang "An Old English Carol". Announcers were Jo Elen Berger, Jane Hauser, Cheryl Stuckey and Priscilla Baumann. They also played piano solos.

Other pupils participating with solos and duets were R. D. Everitt, Paula Cramer, Deborah Rinker, Betsy Weigand, Linda Metzgar, Robert Brister, Jon Miller, Jill Rader, Lou Ann Kanouse, Fred Ducklow, Sharon Wallingford, Jimmie Serfass, Charlene Buser, Holly Price, Beryl Dennis, Barbara Brister, Vicki Mann, Barbara Ducklow, Mary Jane Serfass, Susan Hal. Assisting at the candlelight tea table were: Mrs. Lawrence, Hildegarde Baumann, Bailey, Mrs. Dale Morgan, and Mrs. Franklin Buser. There were 52 present.

FILL IT!

Luncheon omelets take to fillings: mushroom and onion, tomato sauce, grated cheddar cheese of creamed fish or vegetables.

THE FIRST all-talking motion picture, "The Lights of New York," was presented in 1928.

Just Between Us—

—By Bobby Westbrook

If I believed in re-incarnation, and could choose what I should be, I might choose the character of a mother hen. Certainly I played the role to the hilt over the weekend, clucking around, scratching for food, and squawking until the whole brood of young things came to eat it.

It is a role in which I find great satisfaction. No mother hen could spread her feathers more imposingly or preen herself so complacently as when the house is full of them: crowing, chattering, and spreading their wings.

Granted that there were times when I made as mad as a wet hen when the flock scattered and a couple of them didn't return to the chicken run until long after the hoot owls and other night - prowlers were abroad.

But no pouter pigeon could have strutted so proudly as I, leading a whole peew-fal down the aisle of a Sunday morning; a little sleepy and ruffled, perhaps, but there. However, I have an idea that to other eyes I am not so much

16th Birthday Surprise At Blakeslee Hall

Blakeslee — The 16th Birthday of Ronald Teeter Waltz was celebrated on Saturday night at the Blakeslee Community House by friends and relatives in a surprise party.

He was lured to the Community House by members of the Methodist Youth Fellowship who were to have a meeting, so they said.

The refreshment table was decorated with a three layer birthday cake, sandwiches, potato chips, ice cream, soda and coffee which were served after the games.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Straub Jr., of Weissport, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Kerriek, Robert, Jeff, Julie and Howard Kerriek, Mrs. W. E. Waltz, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Waltz and children, Jack and Nancie Jeanne, Mrs. James Waltz, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Keiper, Beverly, Norbert Marlin and Darwin Keiper, Glenmore and Billy Hayes, Lorraine Blakeslee, Ellen Klock, Shirley Hawk, Susan Starner, Suzanne Shiner, Marjorie Henning, Eugene Kerriek, Jack Sipple, George Siffes, Mrs. Walter Wildrick and son, Jimmie, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Waltz, Rodney and Dennis Waltz and the guest of honor, Ronald Waltz, who received many gifts.

Also sending gifts were Agnes Sipple, Darlene Gruver, Raymond Pauff and Jerry Hanna.

The Rodgers Shooks Have Open House On Christmas Day Golden Wedding

Tannersville — Mr. and Mrs. Rodgers C. Shook, Tannersville, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Christmas Day.

They were married in the parsonage of the Hamilton Square Church on December 25, 1909, by Rev. W. C. T. Strausser, Mrs. Shook is the former Cora Feller, of McMichael's, Mr. Shook has been a carpenter all his life until his retirement. They have one son, Edward, and a granddaughter, Barbara.

College Dance Wednesday At Penn-Stroud

College students, home for vacation, have reacted enthusiastically to the idea of a reunion, scheduled for this Wednesday night at 8 p.m. at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

It will be a dance, with a midnight supper, but students, both men and women are invited to come with or without dates, since the main idea of the party is a get-together of former classmates. There will be an orchestra for dancing.

Those students who have not yet made definite reservations may call either Mrs. W. A. Anderson, HA 1-6190 or Mrs. Stuart Swartley, HA 1-1940. Reservations are not necessary but it would help in estimating the number of suppers necessary.

Y-Gradale Tonight

The Y-Gradale will hold its postponed Christmas party tonight at 8 at the YMCA. A program and party will be featured.

I thought for a minute I'd have two guest columnists today . . . Bill Fisher, head of our Wyckoff accounting department, and Bob Hoffman, head of Sears advertising. Both were seated cozily by my typewriter during the lunch hour—but sadly enough, they didn't type a thing. Just concluded the conversation, said a cheery Merry Christmas, walked away and left me with a blank sheet of paper.

I did hear from Bob, however, that we have some wonderful buys on marked down Christmas cards at Sears . . . really beautiful cards, he tells me. So, if you've forgotten anyone, or are in the mood to stock up for next year, now's the time!

The day before Christmas is an exciting one each year at Wyckoff's. Dot Dunn's switchboard is weighted down with gifts, and it takes a real magician to know which she is giving . . . which she is receiving . . . and which are slated for exchange at the mid-afternoon office party which she masterminds.

In advertising, the same is true of Mabel Anderson's desk . . . and of mine. This year the most fascinating parcel was a large striped one from our advertising manager, Arthur Widmer. Being the biggest parcel, it just naturally intrigued me no end . . . and it was all I could do to keep from opening it before Santa's official arrival.

I had a tree too . . . a neat one of cellophane filled to the peak with foil-wrapped chocolates, and standing squarely on a firm red base . . . a sweet promise of things to come.

One of the nicest things that happened the day before Christmas was a telephone call from Elsie Logan, Walter's wife. Walter is the head of our Wyckoff picture framing department, and Elsie, whose "Here Comes the Bride" program was such a popular WVPO feature for so long, has been confined to her Tannersville home for months after a severe illness.

Despite her troubles, she is cheery and enthusiastic, sharing other people's pleasures and interests in a spirit of neighborly good will. It was kind of her to call and say "Merry Christmas" . . . and we surely hope her own was "merry and bright".

Helen Weingartner of our drapery department, has reported that Rose Kennedy, of Monroe Security Bank and Trust Company, had read in our column about the new non-reflecting glass used by Walter Logan in some of his picture framing. She decided to try it on a Christmas gift she was giving, and was delighted. "It's really beautiful," she enthused, and Helen was happy to relay the news. Ask for it yourself next time you have framing done in our Wyckoff picture framing department.

I do hope that Santa Claus left a new portable typewriter at the home of one of our Wyckoff junior executives. His wife telephoned to ask if I'd pick it up in the stationery department, see that it was gift wrapped and spirit it into his car. With the help of one of his brothers, this is just what I did . . . unless, of course, we put it in the wrong car! Oh, well . . . if I find a dismissal notice in my pay next time (typed on an OLD machine) I'll know what happened!

Colts Beat New York, 31-16. For Pro Grid Title

Moore, Unitas Spark Comeback

BALTIMORE (AP)—Two lightning-bolt passes from quarterback Johnny Unitas to halfback Lenny Moore lifted the Baltimore Colts out of a defensive struggle Sunday and set them up for a 31-16 rout of the New York Giants and their second straight pro football championship.

After the Unitas-Moore combination found the only real holes in the heralded Giants' defense to go ahead 14-9 in the last quarter, the Colts turned three pass interceptions into a pair of touchdowns and a field goal to win going away.

The Giants were held to a record-tying three field goals by Pat Summerall until the final minute. They scored their touchdown with 31 seconds left on a 32-yard pass from Chuck Conerly to end Bob Schnelker.

Unitas Scores
Unitas passed for two touchdowns in all and rolled out for four yards and the winning TD that capped an 86-yard, 10-play drive in the 24-point fourth period. The 26-year-old quarterback, player of the year in the National Football League, now has thrown for touchdowns in 39 consecutive games, including last year's 23-17 sudden-death overtime tie victory against the Giants.

Ironically, it was Moore whom the Giants double-teamed in last year's playoff only to lose because of a Unitas-Ray Berry passing combination. This time, New York concentrated on Berry, and Moore picked off Johnny's bolts to trigger the victory.

The Colts, favored by 3½ points, scored the first time they had the ball—on a 60-yard pass play from Unitas to Moore—but then were blanked by a crushing Giant line until early in the fourth period.

A 36-yard pass play from Unitas to Moore, who bulled to the New York 12, set up the TD that wiped away a 9-7 New York lead as Unitas faked to his right three plays later.

That touchdown left the Giants' wobbly and perked up the Colts as the 57,557 fans in Memorial Stadium sensed a breakthrough.

Statistics	New York	Baltimore
First downs	16	13
Rushing yardage	118	73
Passing yardage	250	264
Passes	17-38	18-29
Passes intercepted by	0	3
Punts	6-48	6-37
Fumbles lost	0	0
Yards penalized	23	30

Conerly, at 38 playing perhaps his greatest season in his 12th NFL year, then lost two of his next four passes to interceptions. He lost only four all season long previously. The third Colt interception came on an option pass by halfback Frank Gifford.

Nelson First
Andy Nelson made the first interception of the game on the Giant 30 and returned it 15 yards. Unitas then flipped into the flat to rookie end Jerry Richardson of Wofford for a 12-yard touchdown pass, and Johnny Sample really cranked the lid by grabbing another Conerly pass and returning it 42 yards for the third TD of the quarter.

Sample, a late season Colt defender, then snagged his second interception and rolled 34 yards to set up a 25-yard field goal by Steve Myhra.

The Colts, first repeat champs since the 1954-55 Cleveland Browns, ran for only 73 yards against the Giants' line. But Unitas completed 18 of 29 passes for 264 yards while the Giants completed only 17 of 38 for 250.

The Giants ran for 118 yards, but missed what could have been their own breakthrough when they gambled and lost on fourth down in the third period.

Conerly and halfback Frank Gifford got together for an 18-yard pass play that carried to the Baltimore 37 for a first down. But after Gifford was held to no gain and Gene (Big Daddy) Lipscomb batted down a Conerly pass, the Giants were a foot short at the Baltimore 26 on Conerly's flip to Schnelker.

Halfback Alex Webster slammed into the line as the Giants passed up a field goal try. But the Colts choked off the bid and after an exchange of punts took off on the comeback drive

Borough Fives Meet Tonight In Tourney

AFTER a week's break, Stroud Union and East Stroudsburg High Schools meet again. This time it's the Stratton Christmas Tournament with the two interborough teams playing the opener of tonight's double-header at 7:30 p.m.

Eastburg has played once since they were beaten by Stroud Union 62-55 Monday. The Cavaliers dropped Bangor 70-50.

Not only has Stroud Union been idle, game-wise, since the first interborough game but the Mountaineers of Bob Wert have not had a practice session in seven days.

Practice Planned
Wert had planned a workout yesterday but was out of town Friday night and foggy driving conditions prevented his return to Stroudsburg until today. Doug Schoonover, coach of East Stroudsburg took advantage of the vacant Stroud Union gym to rehearse his crew for tonight.

The winner of tonight's game plays the winner of Lehigh-Lansford game, the second game of the twinnish.

In opening round action Saturday, Palmerton rapped Bangor 64-33 and Cataqua beat Nazareth 70-48. Palmerton led Bangor 45-7 at halftime and the Palmerton subs played most of the second half.

Davis, Weber Play For Orange

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Ailing halfbacks Ernie Davis and Mark Weber were reported ready Sunday to play football. The news brightened an already sunny Sunday at the Syracuse University training camp for the Cotton Bowl clash with Texas New Year's Day.

Davis, a 205-pound sophomore from Elmira, N. Y., and key to much of the undefeated Orange-men's success had been complaining of stiffness and soreness in an area ranging from his lower back to upper left thigh. Weber, 196-pound junior wingback from Solon, Ohio, suffered a twisted right knee earlier in the week.

Duquesne, with an imposing array of tall men, ironically has been jinxed by teams with small men in losing two of its first five games. Coach Red Manning, who succeeded Duquesne Moore last season, is the first to admit it:

Shorties Hurt
"The little men have been giving us plenty of trouble. The way things have been going we're glad to take on a team with some tall men and hope for a chance of luck."

Duquesne's fortunes depend a great deal on the performances of two men — Bob Slobodnik, a 6-9 backboard demon who has grabbed off 87 rebounds in games to date, and Twyman, a 6-2 junior who is considered to have great scoring potential.

Slobodnik has averaged 12.8 points per game this season, scoring on 30 percent of his attempts. That's not considered up to par for the rangy junior from Netrona.

Twyman, who works in the back court, was tossed off the team in a pre-season hassle with Ma ning but reinstated before the Georgetown game at Pittsburgh. Twyman contributed 10 points but the Dukes lost, 64-63.

"I think Slobodnik is one of the best big men in the East," Penn Coach Jack McCloskey said Sunday. "But we're even more apprehensive about Twyman who came on late in the game and wrecked Temple in I 'hedgehog' last season."

Giants Talked Colts Played Says Donovan

By LOU PANOS

BALTIMORE (AP)—"They shot their mouths off all week—and we played football today." That was the sum-up of Baltimore tackle Art Donovan Sunday after the Colts rocked the New York Giants 31-16 for their second straight National Football League championship.

"We're just a better football team, that's all," Donovan added quietly amidst the hilarious ruckus of the Colt dressing room after the Baltimore players and coaches expressed their thanks in prayer.

Beaming head Coach Weeb Ewbank credited a defensive stand in the third period with sparking the Colts. Trailing 9-7 after blowing a 7-0 advantage, they stiffened on their own 26 when the Giants had fourth down and about a foot to go for a first down. Baltimore went on to score 24 points before the Giants threatened again.

Fired Up
"I think holding them like that fired us up," said Ewbank. As for a second period decision to snub a field goal try, Ewbank said "I decided to go for the pass play (which missed) because I just had a hunch we were going to hit."

Sometimes you gamble and win, sometimes you gamble and lose. We lost, but fortunately it didn't hurt us too much."

Defensive backs Andy Nelson and Johnny Sample, who snared fourth period interceptions intended for halfback Frank Gifford, explained their matter-of-factly.

Nelson's set up a touchdown and Sample ran 42 yards for a TD with the other.

Forsut Frank
"I was playing the center of a zone defense and picked up Gifford as he came into my area," said Nelson. "Then I saw the ball heading for me and forgot all about Gifford."

"No, I wasn't afraid I'd get behind me and go all the way," Sample said. "I saw the ball all the way and felt sure I could beat him on it." Quarterback Johnny Unitas patiently but tersely answered newsmen and smiled only when Vice

Defense Won Not Offense Howell Says

By Jack Clary

Associated Press Sports Writer
BALTIMORE (AP)—"Their defense made all their points for them today, not the offense," New York Giants Coach Jim Lee Howell said after his Eastern Conference champions were handed a 31-16 beating by the Baltimore Colts for the National Football League title.

"Both defenses were better than the offensive teams," Howell added. "and I thought ours did a terrific job in containing Johnny Unitas until that last period."

Unitas sparked the Colts to a 24-point fourth quarter after his team trailed 9-7.

Howell said the turning point definitely was the Giants' failure to make a first down with a yard to go and the ball on the Colts 26 in the third period.

"The team seemed to go down a bit after that, though they never once stopped trying," he said.

Howell paid glowing tribute to offensive end Bob Schnelker and defensive halfback Dick Lynch. Schnelker caught 9 passes for 175 yards and Lynch helped hold Colts and Ray Berry to 68 yards and 5 receptions. Berry led the NFL in pass receptions and yardage during the season.

Howell also said the loss of end Kyle Rote by a slight concussion in the first period hurt the Giants.

"He's the kind of a receiver who is ready-made for a defense like the Colts," Howell said.

"We didn't play as good a game as we're capable of, nor did they," he said. "We weren't as sharp as we expected to be, but I don't know if even our sharpest performance would have beaten the Colts today."

Defensive tackle Dick Modzeleski said he didn't think the Colts were as good as last year.

"We faced a much better club last year, but you can't take it away from them, they're champs," he said.

President Nixon congratulated him and asked about a smudge on his cheek.

"It's nothing," grinned Unitas. Then, ignoring his loss of 50 yards by the Giant line in the first half, he added, "they didn't lay a hand on me."

Ferris Hurting Prestige American Coach Charges

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—An American who has made a career of coaching national basketball teams in Europe, charged Sunday the head of the AAU, Dan Ferris, "is hurting our sports prestige around the world."

This is happening, said Jim McGregor, 37, because Ferris "is trying to enforce a policy of isolationism."

Saturday night in New York, Ferris said a Swedish national basketball team was refused AAU sanction to play a series

Cage Tournaments To Run Coast To Coast This Week

IF basketballs jingled while they bounced, you'd hear something akin to the anvil chorus from the nation's college courts this holiday week.

Big 'O' Sets Tourney Mark Gets 47 Points

The Big O spent the first 30 minutes showing he rates All-America billing just on his rebounding and playmaking alone. He broke loose with a tremendous shooting display in the last 10 minutes for a tournament-record 47 points in Cincinnati's 96-56 rout of St. Bonaventure.

Cincinnati, considerably improved over last year's fine team because of the board play of 6-foot-9 soph Paul Hogue, plays St. Joseph's (Pa.), a team it crushed 123-79 in Cincinnati earlier this season. St. Joseph's advanced Saturday with an 84-70 victory over Manhattan behind John Egan's 28 points. The other ECAC semifinal matches Iowa, a 91-84 winner over St. John's (N.Y.), with unbeaten New York University, which whipped Dartmouth 78-68.

Elsewhere, Missouri meets Oklahoma and Kansas plays Oklahoma State to wind up first-round play in the Big Eight Tournament in Kansas City; Wisconsin, a 95-82 winner over Boston College, plays for the Queen City title in Buffalo against Canisius, which defeated Pitt 89-82; survivors Oregon State, Idaho, Washington State and Oregon go into the semifinals of the Far West classic in Corvallis, Ore. and Santa Clara meets Pepperdine and Seattle plays St. Mary's (Calif.) to complete the West Coast Athletic Conference's first round in San Francisco.

Utah, $-0 and in line to better its sixth rating nationally, plays Duke in its first-round game in the Dixie Classic. The other pairings at Raleigh are Wake Forest against Holy Cross, North Carolina against Saint Dayton, and North Carolina vs. Minnesota.

These rates as the ones to watch from a national standpoint with the ECAC, which goes into its semifinal program Monday night with Madison Square Garden still ringing its applause of the showing of Oscar Robertson Saturday night.

Panthers Lose Road Game To Canisius

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—The Pitt basketball team just can't seem to win away from home.

The Panthers lost, 89-82, to Canisius Saturday night in a first round game in the Queen City Invitational Basketball Tournament here. Pitt now has a 4-4 record — four victories at home and four losses on the road.

In the other first round game Wisconsin defeated Boston College 95-82.

Canisius and Wisconsin meet for the title Monday night after Pitt and Boston College play a consolation game.

Canisius got off to an early 10-point lead. In the closing minutes Canisius hit on 14 free throws then held on to the ball to wrap up the victory.

Pitt hit on 31 field goals compared to 24 for Canisius, but the Griffins led in good free throws 41 to 20.

Phony Russian Soccer Team Forgot To Follow Schedule

MOSCOW (AP)—A group billed as the touring Dynamo championship soccer team kept losing to local teams in a dozen cities. Promoter Alexei Morozov explained the locals that the team was off its form.

The fans were suspicious but accepted the explanation until the national champions got to Lutsik in the western Ukraine.

Komsomol Pravda said the folks in Lutsik noticed the goalie billed as "Lev Yashin" didn't resemble the famed keeper. They screamed the small man couldn't handle the ball at all.

The clincher came when it was learned the real Dynamo team was playing a game in Moscow the same day.

Finally Morozov admitted his team was a bunch of "ringers" and that he was foreman at a Moscow factory who arranged the matches for his team by telephone from his Moscow apartment.

McGregor, home for the holidays, said that was nonsense. "I am in no way a professional promoter. I have no financial interest in the game."

He predicted the Swedish team would come to this country anyway and that college teams would play it. The AAU, he said, had failed before in similar efforts.

Notes From Yesterday's Championship Game

WEBB EWANK'S COLTS played the second half of yesterday's championship game as if they had been sipping some of that beer "from the land of pleasant living" during the intermission.

With only seconds remaining in the game and the Colts in control of the ball the Baltimore substitutes, who were in the game, decided not to run a play but got a running start toward the dressing room.

Baltimore fans are famous for mobbing their heroes and trying to rip their uniforms off.

The Stroudsburg area was well-represented in the officiating end of the game. Charlie Berry the head linesman is from Easton and Lou Palozzi, the back judge, is from Dunmore.

The Giants shocked many long time football observers in the first period when they began moving the ball well against the Colts and then when they had the ball inside the Colts 20 and a first down they called for a time out.

Normally a team that has everything going in high gear believes that everything is working so well a time out would only give the defense a rest. But the Giants called for the rest period and the drive was promptly stopped.

Pleads Death After Killing Two Persons

RICHMOND, Mo. (AP) — A man who pleaded afterward with officers to kill him, too, shot his former wife and baby daughter to death yesterday then turned the .22-caliber rifle on himself, police said.

James Magill, 26, succeeded only in wounding himself in the chest, and is expected to recover.

Dead were his divorced wife, Sherry Magill, 22, and their 15-month-old daughter, Lee Ann.

Mrs. Magill's body was found lying in the bathtub of her apartment, the child clutched in her arms. Each had been shot in the head. Both were wearing night clothing. Magill was found in the kitchen.

"You may as well go ahead and put a bullet in my head," he told officers as they lifted him to an ambulance stretcher.

Mrs. Magill had telephoned police, saying her former husband was trying to break into her apartment. The shooting occurred before officers could get there.

The Magills were divorced Nov. 5 and Magill has since remarried. He left his second wife in Colorado Springs on their honeymoon, telling her he was going to Nebraska for a job. Instead, police said, Magill returned to Richmond and began accosting his former wife.

STARS and stripes in the American flag was suggested by the coats of arms of the Washington family.

Brother Of Ike Aid Held, Denies Fatal Shooting

HERRIN, Ill. (AP) — A woman was killed and her common law husband—who was critically wounded—told authorities they were chased and shot down yesterday by a man who became irate over an incident involving his watchdog.

A murder warrant was issued against Dr. W. J. Goodpaster, brother of Brig. Gen. Andrew J. Goodpaster, staff secretary to President Eisenhower. He was held without bond in Williamson County jail at Marion, Ill. Goodpaster, about 50, is an optometrist. He denied any part in the shootings.

Dead is Margaret Strunk, about 52, mother of 10 children. Bernard Dobraski, 32, who referred to the victim as his wife, was hospitalized with two bullets in the head. Both live in Carterville, Ill., and were walking home from Culp, Ill., after a Christmas Eve round of taverns there.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your fortune. If the number is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 4, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Dear Abby

Where There's A Demand

Dear Abby: Like most teenagers, I like to read magazines. Well, I have just returned from the newsstand. Have you seen what is put out for us to read? "I Learned About Sin From My High School Teacher." And, "We Went Steady One Night Too Long." Also "I Was Chased By A Love-Wild Girl," and "I'm Going To Marry The First Man I See!" If it is true that teenagers are headed for the dogs, I think adults who print such magazines are pushing us in that direction. Not only are those magazines not fit to be read, but they give others the wrong impression about teenagers. Abby, what can be done?

DISGUSTED Teen-Ager (Columbus, O.)

Dear Disgusted: Three cheers for you! The only reason a commodity remains on the market is because there is a demand for it. Somebody must be buying the trash. If you and enough like-minded teenagers refuse to buy those magazines, they will disappear in a hurry. Don't blame the people who publish them. They

Two Arrested In Desecration

COLOGNE, Germany (AP)—Two men were arrested yesterday in connection with the Christmas Eve desecration of a Cologne synagogue.

And two, both 25 and from Cologne, were identified as members of the neo-Nazi German Reich party. Police said one of the men admitted smearing the walls of the synagogue with red-painted swastikas and the words: "Germans we demand: Jews, get out!"

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer last September spoke at the inauguration of the new synagogue which was built on the spot where an old synagogue was razed by Nazis 21 years ago.
